

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a heat exchanger which is produced by connecting two walls together at a plurality of points by compression molding and sealing the edges thereof.

10049862.024902